

International Symposium on the Right to Education

2th edition / November 28, 2025

CALL FOR PROPOSALS

The International Symposium on the Right to Education (SIDE) is an online scientific event bringing together researchers from different professional backgrounds (junior and senior academics, civil society organizations) and geographical areas (North and South), with the aim of sharing research findings that contribute to the successful implementation of the right to education at the international level. SIDE is an accessible and eco-responsible event: no registration fees, no foreign travel, and a strong emphasis on perspectives from the Global South. All in a caring and constructive environment. All in a caring and constructive environment. Following the event, attendees have the opportunity to have their research published in a prestigious scientific journal.
